Landscapes of red, green and black colours
I wonder who and what all of this matters

And I know that most things – are just invisible
Is it still a blind alley – in a never ending repetition
Is it still the same odd path – and I didn't dare to change my direction

John spins around in his deadlock
He does this since I know him

But am I aware of my own
And the sky opens – and god said:

chorus

Runnin' all around – we're walking through a dark valley
We're lookin' for a way – and you never seem to loose

Facing all the things – we're reaching out for everything
Searching all day – we always seem, we always seem to win

And god said: You only got one chance

main 2

Sometimes an initial impetus pushes me
And I am surprised – but then I don't know Where this way guides me

All the small fears and dreads are barriers in my head, are holding me back, they're strange miracles

Turning around in the same scheme
You may ask for the exit – but I always find it in myself

The puzzle in my head
And the sky opens – and god said:

chorus

Runnin' all around – we're walking through a dark valley
We're lookin' for a way – and you never seem to loose

Facing all the things – we're reaching out for everything
Searching all day – we always seem, we always seem to win

And god said: You only got one chance

interlude

And god said: You only got one chance
For everything you want, for every idea

You got to decide, you got to decide, you got to decide

main 3

Turning around in the same scheme
You may ask for the exit – but I always find it in myself

The puzzle in my head
And the sky opens – and god said:

chorus

Runnin' all around – we're walking through a dark valley
We're lookin' for a way – and you never seem to loose

Facing all the things – we're reaching out for everything
Searching all day – we always seem, we always seem to win

Runnin' all around – we're walking through a dark valley
We're lookin' for a way – and you never seem to loose

last line

But, my friend, you only got one chance.
